Category 5: Exterior

- We came up with a new look for the balcony complete with curved front with slate tile flooring and wrought iron railing with rolled steel face.
- Due to the age of the home we had to mill the replacement boards for the soffits and decorative mouldings by hand.
- In keeping with the customers wishes to preserve the appearance we designed a new but similar looking front porch.
- The entire structure was rebuilt in solid foundation and using materials to prevent rot and extend the life of the new entrance. The design included rebuilding the face to mimic the upper roof line and decorative gables.
- For the flooring, slate tiling was applied for look and durability along with the older style curved steps with wrought iron railings.
